

ABSTRACT

In a telecommunications network, short dialling codes for a subscriber terminal are programmed by another party, and the allocation of codes is communicated to the 5 user. An audio announcement played as part of the dial tone may be used to communicate the allocation of codes.